Art Unit: 1634

DETAILED ACTION

Location of Application

1. The location of the subject application has changed. The subject application is now located in Workgroup 1630, Art Unit 1634, and has been docketed to Primary Examiner Bradley L. Sisson.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 13-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter, which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Attention is directed to the decision in University of Rochester v. G.D. Searle & Co. 68 USPQ2D 1424 (Fed. Cir. 2004) at 1428:

To satisfy the written-description requirement, the specification must describe every element of the claimed invention in sufficient detail so that one of ordinary skill in the art would recognize that the inventor possessed the claimed invention at the time of filing. Vas-Cath, 935 F.3d at 1563; see also Lockwood v. American Airlines, Inc., 107 F.3d 1565, 1572 [41 USPQ2d 1961] (Fed. Cir. 1997) (patent specification must describe an invention and do so in sufficient detail that one skilled in the art can clearly conclude that “the inventor invented the claimed invention”); In re Gosteli, 872 F.2d 1008, 1012 [10 USPQ2d 1614] (Fed. Cir. 1989) (“the description must clearly allow persons of ordinary skill in the art to recognize that [the inventor] invented what is claimed"). Thus, an applicant complies with the written-description requirement "by describing the invention, with all its claimed limitations, not that which makes it obvious," and by using "such descriptive means as words, structures, figures, diagrams, formulas, etc., that set forth the claimed invention." Lockwood, 107 F.3d at 1572.

4. For convenience, claim 13, the sole independent claim pending and under consideration, is reproduced below.

13. A method referred to as COBRA for the labelling of a set of at least two bio-organic molecules with a set of at least two colours, comprising generating said set of colours through combining ratio labelling with binary labelling.

5. The specification, while providing a number of examples at pages 19-45, fails to provide an adequate written description of practicing the invention, especially as it relates to employing the algorithm. The specification has also fails to provide an adequate written description of suitable combinations of fluorophores as well as suitable ratios of same.

6. At page 13 of the specification applicant asserts:

The person skilled in the art will clearly be able to choose suitable fluorophores for use in COBRA.

The person skilled in the art will clearly be able to choose suitable ratios of fluorophores in ratio labelling.

It appears that applicant is attempting to satisfy the written description requirement of 35 USC 112, first paragraph, through obviousness. Obviousness, however, cannot be relied upon for satisfaction of the written description requirement. In support of this position, attention is directed to the decision in University of California v. Eli Lilly and Co. (Fed. Cir. 1997) 43 USPQ2d at 1405, citing Lockwood v. American Airlines Inc. (Fed. Cir. 1997) 41 USPQ2d at 1966:

Art Unit: 1634

Recently, we held that a description which renders obvious a claimed invention is not sufficient to satisfy the written description requirement of that invention.

7. For the above reasons, and in the absence of convincing evidence to the contrary, claims 13-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement.

8. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

9. Claims 13-15 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

10. Claim 13 is indefinite with respect to the use of the acronym COBRA without first identifying what the acronym stands for. Applicant is urged to consider amending claim 13 such that --Combined Binary Ratio labeling (COBRA)-- appears at the first instance of use.

11. Claims 14 and 15, which depend from claim 13, fail to overcome this issue and are similarly rejected.

12. Claims 13-15 are indefinite as to how the total number of distinguishable colors is to be calculated and used when the label is something other than two fluorophores.

13. Claim 13 lacks antecedent support for "the labeling."

14. Claim 13 is confusing as to what exactly is the end product. For example, is the end product labeled bio-organic molecules, or is it a set of colors? In either situation, is the end product real or virtual? Claims 14 and 15, which depend from claim 13, fail to overcome this issue and are similarly rejected.

Art Unit: 1634

15. Claims 13-15 are indefinite with respect to what constitutes "bio-organic molecules."
